SEASON 2027

PACHA

Warm by nature. Private by design.

ADRIATIC JEWELS
4 CABINS · 9 GUESTS

WHY PACHA

Built for an owner. Opened to a small group.

- 01 Built for private use, not for charter. Her proportions come from an owner's choice, not a revenue calculation.
- 02 Mahogany from hull to panelling. One material inside and out, and you feel the warmth of it the moment you step aboard.
- 03 Four cabins on the length others give five. Nine guests at most (8 adults + 1 child), so there is room for everyone.
- 04 The owner is on board for your week. He reads the weather with you and shapes the days around your group.
- 05 Something new every winter. The salon ceiling was rebuilt in 2025, and a new teak deck and all-new upholstery followed in 2026.
- 06 Three places to be on one deck plan. The aft deck, the forward sunbeds and the swim platform, so nobody has to share one rhythm.
- 07 A low swim platform. Children and grandparents get into the sea and back out without a ladder.
- 08 A jet ski, a SeaBob and a jacuzzi for two. The water toys are aboard for the whole week.

The space of a private yacht.

SHE WAS NEVER BUILT TO SLEEP TEN.

Where other yachts her length add a fifth cabin, Pacha leaves the room. The aft deck, the salon and the foredeck are shared by nine guests at most, so nobody waits for a sunbed or a seat at the table. The same length as the rest, with fewer people on board.

THE MAN AT THE HELM

Owner. Captain. Eighty boats viewed. He chose this one.

Goran viewed about eighty boats in Croatia and Turkey before he bought Pacha, and he says he knew within minutes that she was the one. He collects classic cars, and he looks after her the same way.

He has lived by the sea for three decades and worked in tourism, excursion boats and beach watersports, where he was among the first in his area. Since he bought her, something on Pacha has been rebuilt every winter. His wife chose the pieces in the salon.

The man who owns her is on board for your week.

Step inside and the first thing you notice is the wood, which runs from the hull to the panelling.

The salon keeps the original brass wheel and chart panel, with a wine cabinet and a humidor. The owner's wife chose every piece in the room.

Mahogany, brass, and low warm light.

Life on PACHA happens in three places.

The aft deck. Long lunches and dinners for the whole group, all at one table.

The foredeck. Sunbeds and quiet, far enough from the table to feel like your own.

The swim platform. Low to the water, with the toys and the sea a step away.

Three places, so nobody has to agree on one rhythm.

A table on the aft deck

Breakfast in the shade.

Long lunches at anchor.

Dinner as the light goes.

Every meal on Pacha is served at one table on the aft deck, so the whole group eats together. Menus follow the local market and the coast you are sailing, with a bottle from the wine cabinet to finish the evening.

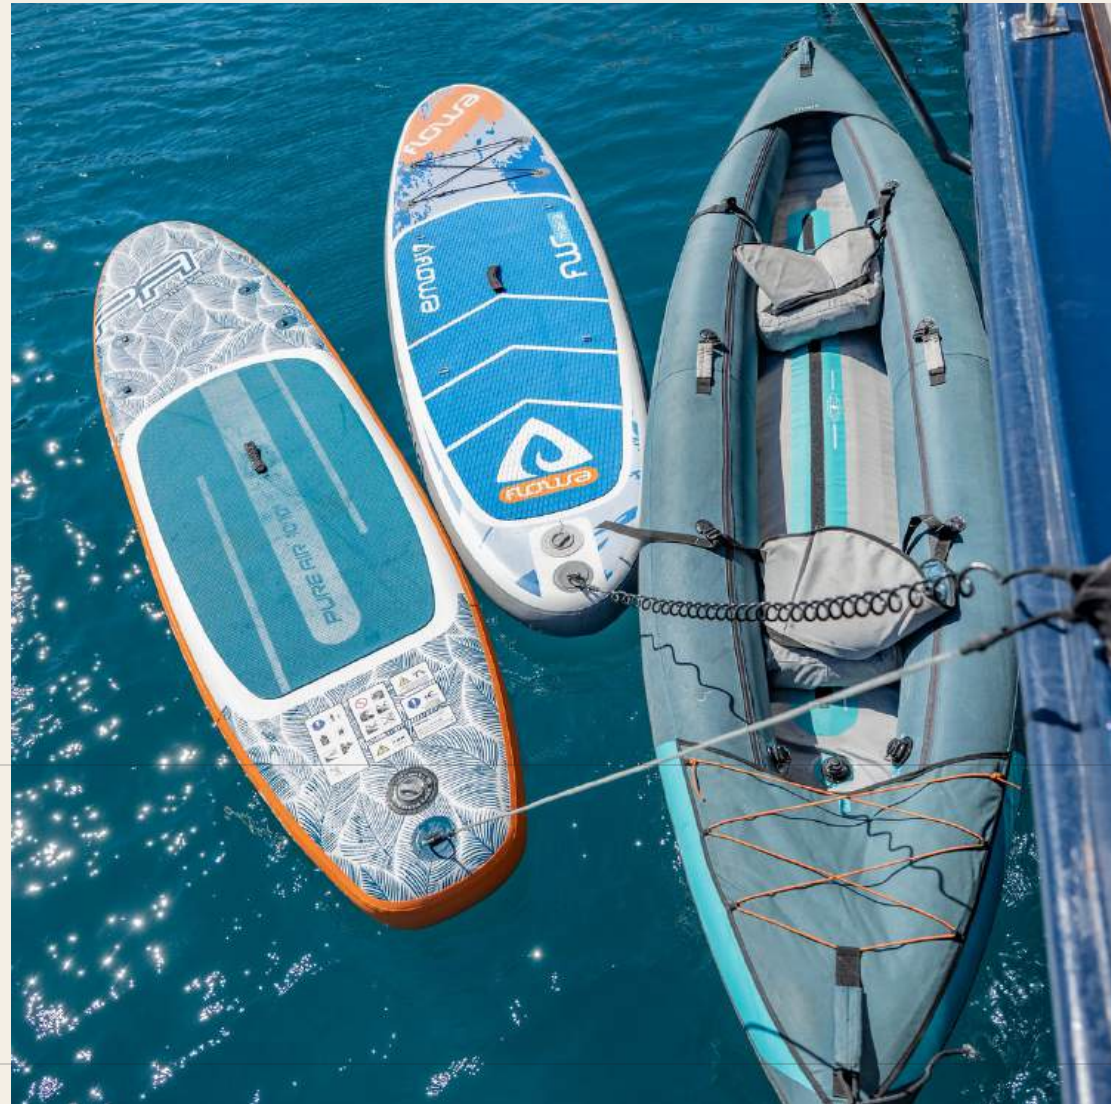

Off the platform, into the sea.

The swim platform sits low to the water, so getting in and out of the sea is easy for everyone.

A jet ski, a SeaBob, water skis, a wakeboard, paddleboards, kayaks and a towable are all aboard for the week.

The paddleboards and kayaks are yours whenever you want them. The crew takes out the motorised toys with you.

For a small group you care about.

Three or four couples who each want their own cabin. One family across three generations, from the youngest swimmer to the grandparents. Two families sharing one week.

Anyone who has been on a full boat and counted the people at breakfast.

Room for everyone you bring, and no one else.

The Adriatic.

Croatia in summer.

She sails the Croatian coast from Omiš. The islands, the bays and the old stone towns are all within easy reach.

Croatia is home waters for her owner. He has lived beside this sea for three decades and knows where to anchor when the wind turns.

He reads the weather with your group, so the itinerary follows your week rather than a fixed timetable.

She looks like the coast she sails along. The view changes every day, and the warmth on board does not.

Four cabins, nine guests, and room for all of them.

BUILT

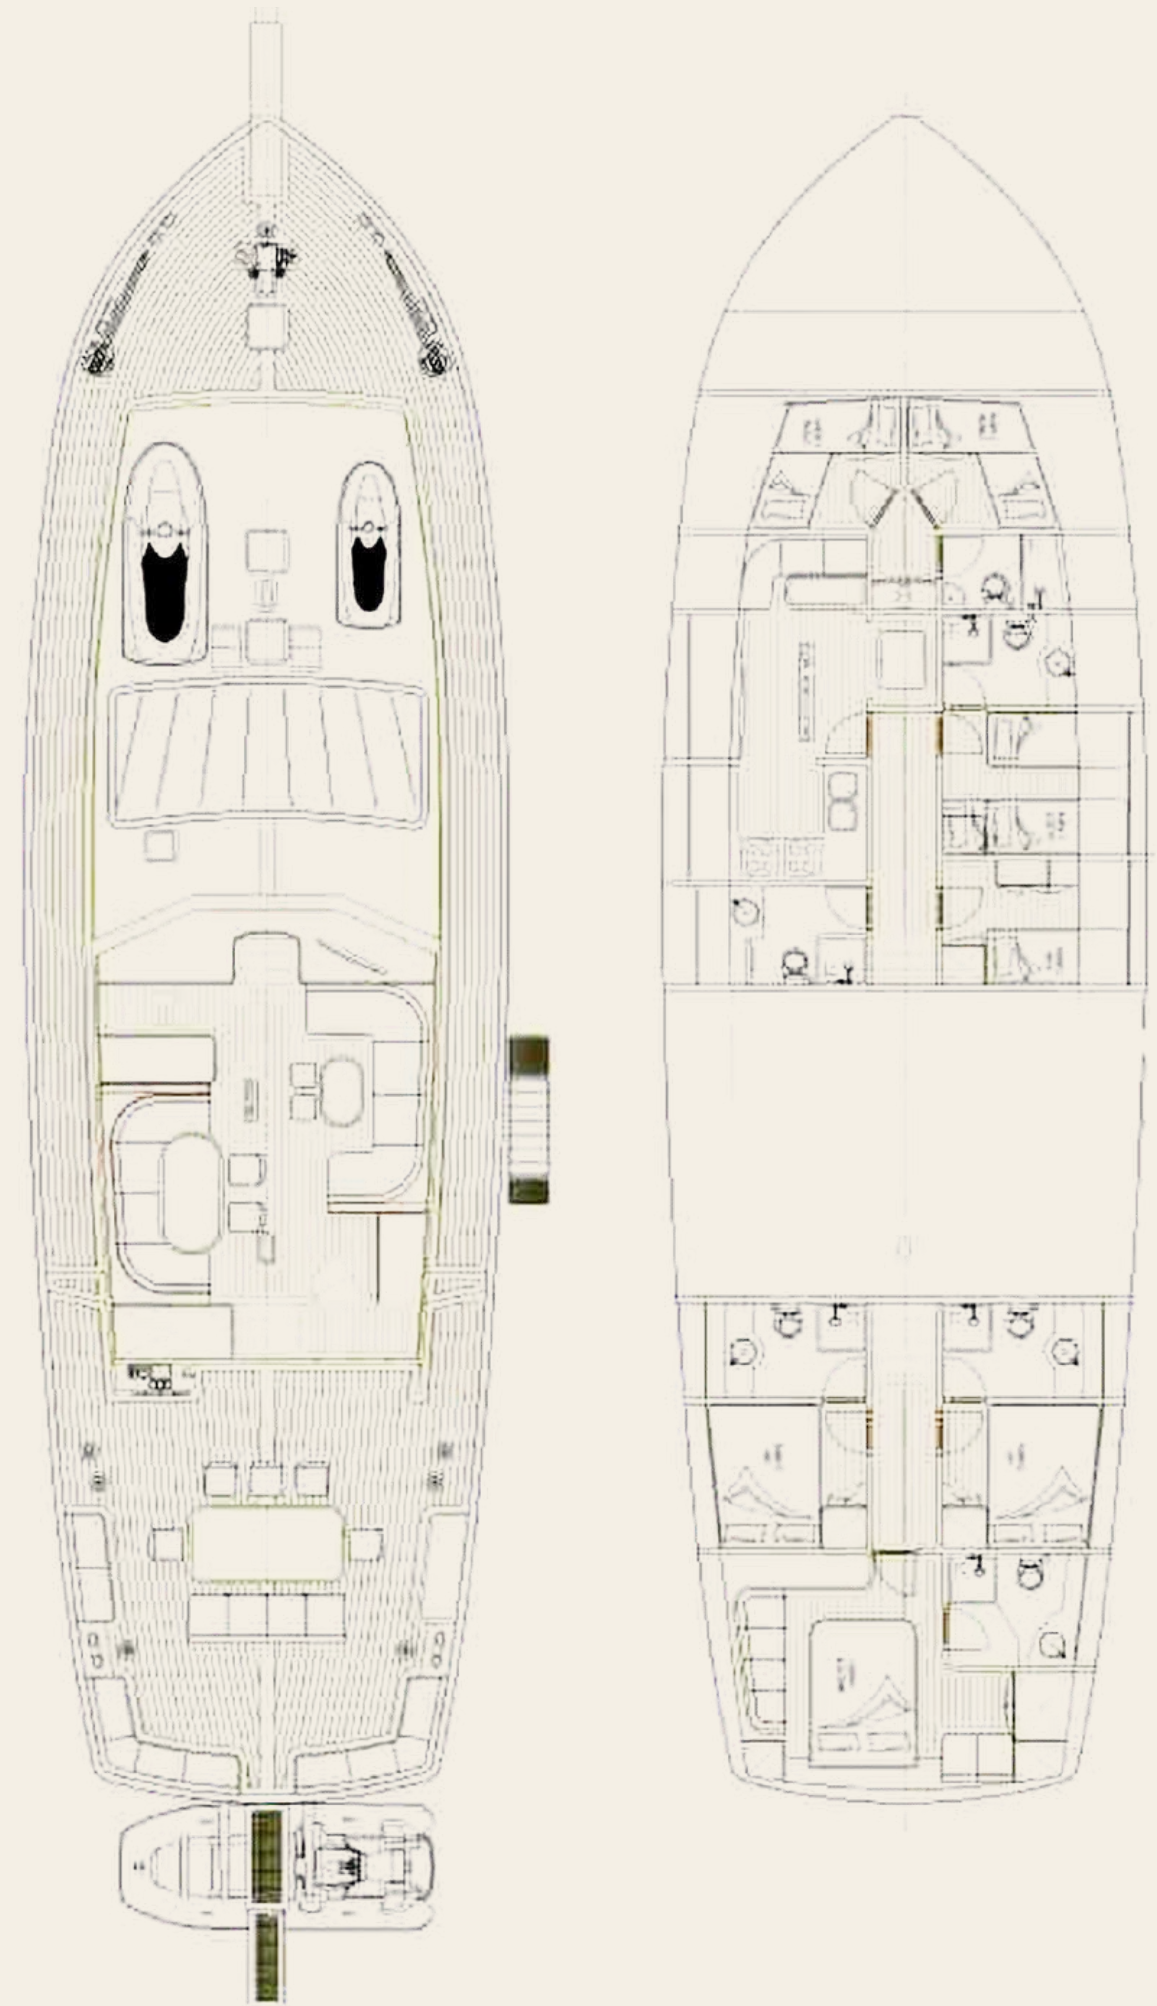

Built for private use. Mahogany hull and interior. New teak deck and upholstery in 2026.

FOUR CABINS, NINE GUESTS, NO FIFTH CABIN.

One master, two doubles, and a twin cabin with an additional Pullman berth for the ninth guest.

Where other yachts her length fit a fifth cabin, Pacha leaves the space to the people already on board.

Every cabin has its own en suite bathroom and air conditioning day and night. The double berths measure 140 × 200 cm.

The aft cabins.

The master spans the full width of the stern. The two doubles sit just forward of it, so three couples sleep side by side, away from the galley and the crew. All three have double beds, a private bathroom and air conditioning day and night.

MASTER CABIN

DOUBLE CABIN

PRIVATE EN-SUITE

The triple cabin.

A double bed and an additional Pullman berth above it, so a family of three can share one cabin or the children can have one of their own. It has a private bathroom and air conditioning day and night, the same as the other cabins.

Four cabins, nine guests, and everyone knows where they sleep.

DELIVERY / RE-DELIVERY FEE

If the yacht is not booked for the week before or after yours, and your charter starts or ends in a port other than Omiš, a delivery fee applies depending on the location.

Your broker prepares a clear, itemised estimate before booking. Your group knows exactly what to expect before confirming.

The questions that matter most.

Can we bring more than nine guests?

No. Nine is the official maximum: eight adults and one child in the Pullman berth. If your group is larger, we will suggest a yacht with five cabins.

Is the fourth cabin as good as the others?

The master and two doubles are aft, and the twin cabin has a Pullman berth. Every cabin has its own bathroom. We send the layout during your enquiry so you can decide who sleeps where.

Is she suitable for young children and older guests?

Yes. The swim platform sits low to the water, and a safety net can be put up around the deck before children come aboard. Send us their ages.

Does she sail?

In calm conditions the sails can go up, so you can experience it. If sailing is the point of your week, ask us about a sailing yacht.

What has been done to her recently?

The salon ceiling was rebuilt and insulated in 2025. A new teak deck and all-new upholstery followed in 2026. Something is renewed every winter.

What costs sit beyond the charter fee?

VAT and 4 hours of cruising fuel a day are included. A.P.A. at 30% covers food, drinks and port costs, and the gratuity is optional. Your broker prepares an itemised estimate before booking.
